VOL. XVII NO. 290 CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., FRIDAY, MAY, 25, 1917 ONE CENT

COUNTY TO GET FAIR SHARE OF HIGHWAY FUND

Apportionment Arranged by State Highway Commissioner Black

APPROPRIATIONS REPORTED

According to an apportionment made by State Highway Commissioner Black, who insists upon an equitable distribution of available funds among all the counties, Washington county will receive in the next two years $27,273.14 for every million dollars appropriated for state-aid work and $19.418 56 for every million dollars appropriated for state highways This is in accord with the appropriations bill introduced in the house of representatives at Harrisburg by James F. Woodward, chairman of the appropriations committee. The sum of $3,000,000 is appropriated for state-aid roads and $1,000,000 for state highways.

With the apportionment a total of $81,819.42 would be given Washington county for state aid roads and $233,-032.72 for state highways within the next two years.

In order to make the state-aid money available a similar amount must be furnished by the local authorities, which would make the total sum to be spent by the State Highway department in Washington county in the next two years $496,661.56, indicating the extent of the work planned in the county by State Highway Commissioner Black and Chief Engineer Uhler.

This amount is exclusive of the funds available for work on the National pike and of any maintenance work to be done by the state in Washington county.

Any reduction in the total of the appropriation would mean a similar reduction in the county's share and would seriously handicap road work in Washington county by the state highway department for the next two years

It is not likely that the members of the legislature from Washington county would agree to any material cut in the pending appropriation without a protest vigorous enough to be heard back home.

PREPARE FOR REGISTRATION

Plans Arranged at Organization Meeting of Washington Co. Board

SHERIFF NAMED CHAIRMAN

The regstration board of this county for the selective draft system met at Washington and organized Thursday with Sheriff F. B. Wickerham as chairman. The other members of the board are Commissioner John O. Watson of Charleroi and Dr. E. M. Hazlett of the state dispensary, South Main street, Washington. J. Add Hall is acting as clerk, and the board is meeting in the lower office of the county commissioners.

Thursday the board spent the time in going over the registry list of the county and is selecting from each voting precinct some person who in their opinion is competent to do the work that will be required in registering those males who come under the registration law, on June 5.

Every male in the United States who is aged 21 years and has not yet reached the age of 31 years must register in accordance with the conscription act. This must be done on June 5, when the registrars, who are to be appointed, will be at the different polling places It matters not where born, whether sane or insane, a prisoner in a penal institution, a citizen or alien, everyone who comes under the provision of the law must subscribe to it or pay the penalty.

No excuses will be accepted and furthermore it is expected that the men who fail to do their duty in this particular, will be summarily conscripted into the army, and not given a chance to escape draft through the jury wheel plan of drafting. Men who fail to register will be subject to court martial proceedings, after June 5.

COUNTY OBSERVES GOOD ROADS DAY

Much Good Done by Volunteer Workmen---Bealls-ville People Busy

REPAIR IMPORTANT HIGHWAYS

Road improvement of a permanent and in some places badly needed character was done Thursday in Washington county by over 600 patriotic citizens who volunteered their services for the observance of Good Roads day. Township and state highway officials had charge of the workers and expressed themselves as highly pleased with what had been accomplished.

Perhaps the largest body of men was at work at eBallsville where 150 men assisted in the repair of the National pike on the hill west of the town and 100 others worked on the Turkey Foot road from Beallsville to Fredericktown. Nearly 60 men were employed in placing a bad portion of the Bethany road near Claysville in good condition. Morris township also was enthusiastic in response to the Good Roads day appeal and several score workers were busy along the Chartiers division of the Pennsylvania railroad. South Franklin, North Franklin, Amwell and Peters township citizens also were active in road work and men of other townships who had not reported last night. Charleroi did not formally observe the day as it had in the last two years but took an indirect interest in the proceedings. Washington and Jefferson college students, as usual busied themselves in the vicinity of Washington and in other points throughout the county and did their full share of the work.

PANHANDLE EXTENSION WORK IS BEING PUSHED

With the shrill whistle of the dinky locomotives and the clanging of gigantic steam shovels, the work of building the Panhandle extension of the Pennsylvania railroad along the south side of the Ohio river is being pushed steadily forward. The branch will extend from Chester, W. Va., to the Hostetter farm, just below Merrill dam and will then follow the course of Raccoon creek to Washington county.

Several hundred negro laborers were imported this week from the South and are housed in camps at various points along the route of the new railroad.

WILL HOLD PATRIOTIC SERVICE AT FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Rev. E. N. Duty, pastor of the First Christian church will hold a special patriotic service at the church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. His subject will be "God's Minute Men." Children will sing and recite. Capt. J. E Newcomer and his Monessen Cadets will be present and war veterans with the Veteran Guard Drum corps.

All members of the L. C. B. A. Branch 782 are requested to meet at the home of Mr. Brown 934 McKean avenue at 7:30 tonight, May 25.

FINDS GAS BY MATCH HE DROPS INTO WELL

Sense of Smell Tells Speers' Burgess That Gas is Gone But Sparks Inform Him Differently

Charles Walters, burgess of Speers borough, is nursing a burned face because he emulated in too matter of fact way the Indian man told of in verse, who one dark night went to the cellar with a match in search of a gas leak. He found it.

Several days ago, George Walters, one of the Walters family at Speers smelled gas. The trail led to the water well. Efforts were made to remove the gas and it was thought Thursday night it was all gone, because it could not be detected by the sense of smell. Burgess Charles Walters decided to make a test. Far beyond his expectations was the result. When he dropped a lighted match into the well an explosion occurred that bowled him and George Walters over as though they were mere pins, and tore the concrete lining out of the well. The reverbration was heard far and wide, but outside of the damage done to the well and the burns Burgess Walters received, little ill effect was noted.

PARADE WILL BE FEATURE

Tomorrow will be circus day. Some time tonight while people are sleeping into Charleroi will creep the great train of 89 cars of the Barnum and Bailey shows, coming direct from Greensburg. Before breakfast is over if the shows make the time they anticipate, a new population will camp out on the big lot at the foot of Second street.

Railroad officials anticipate the arrival of the big caravan between the hours of 3 and 4 a. m. It will be in four sections, the first carrying the commissary, the workmen and all the animals, the second and third sections, with the red wagons filled with new canvas, poles, ropes and many other necessities for the construction of the 32 tents of which the whole circus city is made; the fourth, pullmans and private cars, containing the performers and officials of the show.

Ample time will be given the show people to "get fixed" and to get affairs in ship shape before the parade which according to official request from Burgess Woodward, will start at 12 o'clock. By that moment all the large tents will be up ready to admit the vast throngs which will be here for the holiday. The biggest tent, to digress a trifle, is 680 by 300 feet, comfortably accommodating 16,800 persons. Three rings, four elevated platforms, colossal hippodrome oval and a wilderness of aerial apparatus will be formed in the big tent.

The performances will begin at 2 and 8 o'clock. The big show will start with the triumphal of Alladin and his Princess in the pageant "Al-

DETAILS ARE TOLD OF THE BRUEY MURDER

Fate of Former Charleroi Man Now Rests with Judge McIlvaine

STATE ASKS FIRST DEGREE

The fate of Theophile Bruey, wife murderer, is now with the court. Tried before Judge J. A. McIlvaine Thursday without a jury the case was concluded on the testimony and arguments made. It is with the court now to determine, under all the testimony, the degree of murder of which the defendant is guilty. The court's decision will be handed down very shortly. Assistant District Attorney Howard W. Hughes conducted the case for the commonwealth and Attorneys R. G. Miller and J. Olan Yarnell appeared for the defense. It was the second time since Judge McIlvaine has been on the bench that he has heard a homicide case without a jury.

Very brutal facts surround the case. Last October 30, Bruey in a fit of anger, attacked his wife with a corn cutter. He hacked her across the head, face, arms and back, inflicting such severe wounds that they caused her death a few hours later in a Pittsburg hospital. A daughter, Rosie, attempted to protect her mother, and had a thumb cut off and deep wounds inflicted on her arms, where she was struck by the weapon in the hands of her father

The facts of that fatal October morning, at Crossecreek village where the defendant conducted a small dairy and had a comfortable home, were reviewed before the court. The defendant entered a plea of guilty to murder. It will be for the court to decide whether or not the defendant shall go to the electric chair or to the penitentiary. The commonwealth insisted it was murder in the first degree. The defense contended for murder in the second degree.

The defendant appears fully repentant of the awful crime which he committed. He listened attentively to the testimony, and that which condemned him most was given by his own children. When brought into court he sobbed pitifully, and time and again during the day broke down. It touched the heart of every one in the court room when, just before the case started his five children came into the room. He glanced about at them and then buried his head in his hands and sobbed. He felt that the children, those old enough to realize do not have the filial love for him that they should, because of the frightful occurrence that wrecked their home. The oldest of the children is Joseph, married, and now living at Canonsburg His brother and sister live with him. Among them is Rosie, aged 15, one hand thumbless and bad-looking scars on her arm; another, Genevieve, aged 12, saw her father's mad attack on her mother. Then there is Theophile, Jr., aged eight years old. When court was adjourned at noon the father was allowed to speak to the children for a moment. He put his arms about the little ones, caressed them and sobbed. It was a trying moment for those in the court room and there were many tear-

KEEPING SIDEWALKS CLEAR

A little severity would not hurt to convince newcomers to town and others who may evince tendency to trespass a little, that there are ordinances made to be obeyed in Charleroi. Unless severity is shown now conditions may become worse. Reference is made to keeping the sidewalks clear. There is an ordinance on the statute books that is very specific about obstructing the sidewalks, and a distance of so many inches is the limit that a store keeper may use beyond his window for the display of goods. Practically all, if not all the old established merchants of the community, are observing the ordinance to the letter and a number have glass cases for display that do not protrude beyond the established length. Various others, some of whom have opened stores only within late years, and possibly who do not know the provisions of the ordinance are offenders. They need to be informed once and for all and then upon repetition dealt with in accordance with the enormity of their offense.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

It happened at the ball game.

There was a man in the grand stand who looked as if he had been in the habit of attending matinees instead of ball games. Enough said. Maybe he was an actor and had to. At any rate, he had a fine eye for the dramatics of the game, though he was blind to the fine points of play.

At the seventh inning, according to ancient custom, the crowd stood up and stretched. The tyro looked about him with a puzzled expression, then jumped to his feet and took off his hat.

"I say, old chap," he whispered to the man who stood next to him, "there is something the matter with my ears. I didn't hear the band play the 'Star-Spangled Banner!'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Underwater Navigation.

According to all accounts, the hardships of underwater navigation are extreme and very exhausting to the nerves. The air is oppressive and damp owing to "sweating" that the interior has to be lined with cork or other absorbing substances. An overpowering tendency to sleep seizes upon the men, and the concurrence of constant anxiety are terribly wearing.—New York Journal.

Conscious Virtue.

Conscious virtue is the only foundation of all happiness, for [illegible] rank or whatever [illegible] in a state of society in which little happiness will accrue, and much less envy, the inward pangs of guilt.—Lord Chesterfield.

TOWN AND OUT FACTORY GIRL MAKES QUICK RECOVERY

All Her Friends are Amazed

Over-work and worry had exhausted and worn down her nerves and health. She confided to her roommate that rest, medicines and Doctors had done her no good. She kept going from bad to worse. Losing many days from work with loss of pay which added to her depression. When finally her landlady said, "I have hammered at you for the last month to get PHOSPHATED IRON, for I know it will make a new woman out of you. My dear don't you remember how it put my husband on his feet when we thought he was on his finish. Look at him now, strong as a horse, eats hearty, feels like a two year old and has the complexion of perfect health. Believe me PHOSPHATED IRON put new life in him O. K.

Ready to try anything, the girl got it, and it is a treat to hear her describe the results. She said, "I would feel the Iron and Phosphates building up my entire system; my appetite and sleep came back and I gained new strength each hour. It just seemed as if my whole body was starving for Iron and Phosphates.

Doctors claim that exhausted nerves and watery blood must have Iron and Phosphates to restore them. Don't neglect their crying need, but give them this vital food. Phosphates and Iron combined as Phosphated Iron is on easy absorbed and potent remedy which will delight the invalid with its rapidity of action in building up and imparting new vitality. Give Phosphated Iron an opportunity today to prove the truth of this statement.

Special Notice.—To insure physicians and their patients securing the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put up in capsules only. Do not let dealers give you tablets or pills. Insist on capsules. W. F. Hennings, Charleroi, and leading druggists everywhere.

...started ... The estrangement between the eldest son and the father seems permanent. At the conclusion of the case as the defendant was about to be taken back to jail there was another scene as he bade them good-bye. He shook the older children's hands and hugged the little ones, sobbing until he could be heard all about the court house.

Daughters Testify.

During the testimony of the commonwealth, which was closed at noon, there was an unusual quietness about the room. Rosie, one of the principal witnesses, broke down several times as she told her story and the terrible happenings of that fateful morning. She identified the corn cutter, and in the pictures of their home at Crosscreek villages, pointed out just where tragic events happened that morning.

Her attention was first called to the trouble between her father and mother, she said when she heard the loud talking out at the barn, followed a moment later by screams. Then she rushed out from the house and saw her father running after her mother with the corn cutter raised in the air. Her mother, she said, ran to the gate, where she fell. Her father then stood over the mother and struck her, she thought, six or seven times. The daughter had the broom in her hand and struck her father across the side of the face with that. Then he turned on her. The cutter struck the handle of the broom, glanced down it and severed her thumb. Other cuts were made on her arm. She showed the vivid red scars. After her father had vented his rage he walked out of the gate and started down the road.

Geneviere, aged 12, had been sent to the stable by Rosie to tell her parents not to talk so loud, or they would attract the neighbors. The little girl said she saw her father reach for the corn cutter, which was standing just inside the stable door. Her mother was up in the cow stall at the time. In a moment her mother realized what was happening and seized the cutter with both hands. The witness said her father jerked the cutter away and struck her mother and then her mother ran. The father pursued her, with the cutter brandished in the air. Her mother fell as she reached the gate, where the father continued to strike her. Geneviere then ran to get her brother, Joe, who lived nearby.

Others Saw Atatck.

Charles Rego, who lived with the son, Joe Bruey, at that time, had been attracted that morning by screams at Theophile Bruey's house. He went outside the house and saw Mr. Bruey standing over his wife, striking her with a corn cutter. He had both hands on the cutter. Rego ran to get Joe, and not finding him, went down into the village to get an officer.

Mrs. Joe Bruey, who was attracted to the house of her father-in-law by the trouble, corroborated the testimony of the others. Assisted by Robert Farmer, who had happened along she carried her mother-in-law into Joe Bruey's home. Mrs. Bruey had deep cuts across the head, face and back and the fingers were almost severed.

There was some evidence that the relations between Mr. and Mrs. Bruey had not been pleasant and that there had been a quarrel on Sunday, the day before the murder. Joe Bruey, the son testified to meeting his father in the blacksmith shop of S. G. Scott, a few moments after the attack; when his father told him he had killed his mother, and he went immediately to his home.

The defendant is a native of France and saw service in the French army. He and Mrs. Bruey were married in France. They lived, before going to Crosscreek in Charleroi.

Mr. Bruey's Story.

Bruey took the stand in his own behalf Thursday afternoon. He was very composed during the first part of his examination, but when it came to the facts concerning the killing he broke down. "I never intended to kill my wife," he sobbed out, two or three times. The examination had to be stopped several times until the defendant could regain his composure. He does not seem to recall much of the happenings that occurred after he had chased his wife from the barn. He remembered of something hitting him in the face, but he did not recall seeing his daughter Rosie. Evidently the man was crazed by anger.

His story of the quarrel in the barn was that his wife first had the corn cutter, that she had spit in his face, and that when she cut him across the wrist with the cutter, he took it from her and then struck her. It was then she fled from the barn and he pursued her and followed up his attack.

It was shown by the defense that Bruey is of a quick temper. It was brought out, on cross examination, that there had been trouble prior to the day of the attack on his wife.

Buey stated he was 49 years old. He was born in France and was married there. He came to this country in 1900 and settled at Bishop. He lived at Bishop, at Midland, at Canonsburg and at Charleroi. He was first employed as a coal miner, then in a factory at Charleroi. In 1914 he returned to France. While there the daughter, Mary Louise, was born. He was in France when the war broke, was called to the colors, but on account of poor health was discharged. He returned to America and in 1915 secured the little farm at Crossvreek, where he was conducting a dairy.

MOTHER SAID TRY IT

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Copner after Doctor's Failed.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I want you to know the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in such bad health from female troubles that I could hardly get off my bed. I had been doctoring for a long time and my mother said, 'I want you to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So I did, and it has certainly made me a well woman. I am able to do my house work and am so happy as I never expected to go around the way I do again, and I want others to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. JOSIE COPNER, 1668 Harrison Ave., Fairmount, Cincinnati, Ohio.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from choice roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

"You've Got the Goods, Atlantic!"

"Today, the specific gravity test is practically worthless as a check on the suitability of a gasoline for, example, for a given motor equipment. * * * It seems most probable that the definition of gasoline will have to be based on the percentage that distills over between specified temperatures, when the distillation is carried out under specified conditions. * * *

"The gasoline must not vaporize too freely for two reasons: One, that it would not be safe, and secondly, its loss in storage by evaporation would be too great. Hence, the specification may have to contain limitations of the percentage distilling over below a certain temperature, coupled perhaps with a proviso that certain percentages shall distil over below other fixed temperatures, in order that requisite amounts of low-boiling constituents shall be present to insure easy starting of an engine.

"Likewise the specification must contain a proviso that all must distil over below a certain maximum temperature, in order to exclude from the gasoline the heavier petroleum distillates, such as kerosene."

Official Press-Statement by U. S. Govt. Bureau of Standards.

We've been preaching and practicing the same thing for years. The boiling-point of Atlantic Gasoline is always uniform. It meets Uncle Sam's ideas perfectly.

LIKE a shot-out-of-a-gun, Atlantic Gasoline sends you breezing along the straightaways or thundering up the stiffest grades with that calm confidence of a Hercules, conscious of his terrible might, atremble with super-strength.

Here's the go-gettem gas if ever there was one. It's got zip and zing and eat-'em-up in its veins. Like a Dan Patch tugging at the traces, your Atlantic-fed motor itches for the getaway, and when you step on the pedal—Say! It's good that cars are provided with brakes!

Uncle Sam says the way to test gasoline is by its "boiling point." Atlantic has steadfastly maintained its uniform boiling point in the face of changing market-conditions. This assures every gallon of gas to be exactly like the last, sparing you the bother of monkeying with the carbureter every so-often.

Take figures from your gasoline-bill and put them on your speedometer where they belong. Use Atlantic Gasoline regularly. It's got z-z-zip!
